

Does Money Matter?

Yes, especially now that there have been increases in:

- gas prices
- food
- transportation
- education
- other necessities needed to survive in today's economy.

United Way has partnered with Cornell Cooperative Extension for you to take advantage of free seminars to help you survive monetarily in this century.

Sign up for our free seminars that utilize the following curricula:

All My Money

is an evidenced based curriculum that was developed by members of the Consumer and Family Economics Team at the University of Illinois Extension. Participants will understand the importance of planning and decision-making in the budgeting process. The lessons included are:

- ✓ Making Spending Choices
- ✓ Understanding Credit
- ✓ Envelope Budgeting
- ✓ Handling Credit Problems
- ✓ Planning Your Spending
- ✓ Building Consumer Skills
- ✓ Taking Consumer Action
- ✓ Checks and Checking Accounts

Money Matters

is a 4-H curriculum that is used to educate middle and high school youth about managing money. It offers activities which will teach youth how to establish personal financial goals and how needs and wants affect their financial decisions. The goal is to help them meet their current financial responsibilities while creating long term financial stability.
